TOPIC---

When I'm running A/UX, selecting files under "hfx" by pressing shift-click does not work. What's going on?

DISCUSSION--

The Shift-click in the A/UX "hfx" behaves a bit differently than in the Macintosh OS. As described in the "Getting Started with A/UX", it works as expected. In general:

- To select a "contiguous" group of files and folders, or files and folders on the same level, press Shift while you select files or folders. You can also select the first file in the group, press Shift and select the last file in the group--all files in between are selected.

- To select files or folders that are "not contiguous", press Command and select the files or folders.
