MouseText: Apple IIc Technical Reference Manual Errata

This article last reviewed: 13 May 1988

The Apple IIc Technical Reference Manual (ISBN#: 0-201-17752-8) shows, on pages 90 and 91, a chart of Apple IIc MouseText Characters. The MouseText equivalents for F and G are shown as four horizontal lines, whose purpose is to make window title bars. This is not correct. On an Apple IIc or Apple IIe (either enhanced beige or platinum), the MouseText characters for F and G are the two halves of the "running man" character.

The horizontal line characters are available only in the Apple IIIGS MouseText character set. There is no ROM upgrade to add these new characters to an Apple IIe or Apple IIc.
