Windows LaserWriter Utility (5/95)

Article Created: 27 April 1994

Article Reviewed/Updated: 16 May 1995

TOPIC -----

There is a Windows utility included with the Laserwriter Select 360 printer that performs similar functions as the LaserWriter Utility in the Macintosh environment.

Does this updated software come with the LaserWriter Pro 630 printers that are currently shipping?

If the software does not come with this printer can our dealers copy the Windows utility software and distribute it to customers who want its functionality?

DISCUSSION -----

The LaserWriter Utility for Windows provides similar functionality to the Macintosh version. This utility only started shipping with the LaserWriter Select 360, and will ship with future printers. The utility was not rolled into the LaserWriter Pro 600/630 because there was minimal testing on this printer. It should, however, work without any problems.

Apple currently supports this utility only on the LaserWriter Pro 600/630 and LaserWriter Select 360. It should, however, work with Apple's other DOS/Windows-marketed printers (such as Personal LaserWriter NTR and LaserWriter Select 310).
