Apple has entered into an agreement with Farallon Computing, Inc., granting them a non-exclusive, worldwide license to use, modify, create, develop, and market products from the AppleShare PC software and the LocalTalk PC Card.

As a result of this agreement with Farallon, Apple has:

- Removed the AppleShare PC and LocalTalk PC products from its Finished Goods price lists in mid-March
- Transitioned to Farallon on April 1 the sales, service, and support for these products SOLD BY Farallon.

You should not have any difficulty distinguishing Apple's software and card from Farallon's, since products sold by Apple are stamped with an Apple logo, and products sold by Farallon have Farallon's trademark.

Farallon has renamed these products this way:

Apple Product	Farallon Product
-----	-----
AppleShare PC software	PhoneNET Talk software
LocalTalk PC Card	PhoneNET Card PC • LocalTalk Card

APPLE WILL CONTINUE TO PROVIDE SERVICE AND SUPPORT (INCLUDING MEDIA EXCHANGE) FOR APPLESHARE PC AND LOCALTALK PC PRODUCTS SOLD BY APPLE PRIOR TO APRIL 1, 1991. Service Providers should continue to service and support these products through Apple.

For more information, search on "Farallon".
