TOPIC -----

This article describes the Macintosh input device marketed by Communication Intelligence Corporation.

DISCUSSION -----

Communication Intelligence Corporation offers a product that lets Macintosh computers read handwritten Chinese and Japanese characters. Currently this product is not distributed in the U.S..

The Mac Handwriter lets computer users give commands or data to Apple's Macintosh computers by writing characters on a small pad. This eliminates the need for a keyboard.

To locate a vendor's address and phone numbers, use the vendor name as a search string.
