PCI Cards: How To Tell If They Are Macintosh Compatible (9/95)

Article Created: 5 September 1995

TOPIC -----

How can I tell if a particular PCI expansion card is compatible with my Power Macintosh 8500?

DISCUSSION -----

PCI expansion cards that are compatible with your Macintosh have a blue sticker on the box indicating that the card is "Designed for Macintosh computers with PCI." The shape of the sticker is similar to those used for Power Macintosh native applications and Macintosh computers that are upgradeable to PowerPC.
