TOPIC ---

How can I access the stack-editing features of the HyperCard that came with my Macintosh?

DISCUSSION --

The version of HyperCard that ships with the new computers has been set to look like a limited-function version. However, with a couple of alterations, you can make this version run at its full potential. Try any of these three workarounds:

- Type "magic" in the message box the first time you use HyperCard 2.0.
  (This handler cuts the opaque button from the last card in the Home stack.)

- Go to the last card in the Home stack and cut the opaque button that hides the "set userlevel" buttons. Click the "5" button.

- Type "set userlevel to 5" in the message box, each time you use HyperCard 2.0.

Or, you can buy a copy of full-featured HyperCard 2.0, with manuals, from Claris.
