HyperCard: Printing a Scrolling Text Field

This article last reviewed: 30 March 1989

Printing the complete text residing in HyperCard scrolling fields can be done by printing a report of the HyperCard stack.

Unfortunately, one drawback to printing a report is that all the cards in the stack with the selected field name will be printed: there is no easy way to select only one card for printing without cutting and pasting.

Another way to print the entire contents of a scrolling field with only selected information and cards would be to use a report utility like Activision's "Reports".
