Indian Language Kit: Includes New Key Caps Application (2/97)

Article Created: 13 February 1997

TOPIC -----

When I installed the Indian Language Kit it appears that a new version of the Key Caps desk accessory was installed in the Apple menu. Why?

DISCUSSION -----

The Indian Language Kit includes an updated version (beyond the version included with Mac OS 7.6) of the Key Caps desk accessory to provide better support of Indian languages. This new Key Caps is an application which can be launched from anywhere on your hard disk.

During installation of the Indian Language Kit, the installer automatically places Key Caps in the Apple Menu if an item already exists there with the name "Key Caps." On computers with a non-English version of Mac OS (which would not have an item called "Key Caps") the new Key Caps application is installed in the Apple Extras folder. You can drag it into the Apple Menu Items folder within the active System Folder if you want it to appear in the Apple Menu. You can also safely remove the localized version of the Key Caps desk accessory.

If you remove the Indian Language Kit, Key Caps will not be deleted. You can delete Key Caps manually by locating it in the Apple Menu Items folder inside the System Folder (or from wherever you placed it on your hard drive) and dragging it to the Trash. However, there is no need to do so because you can continue to use this version of Key Caps even without the Indian Language Kit installed.
