Floppy Disk Maker: Starting New Backup After Interrupting 1/96

Article Created: 3 January 1996

TOPIC -----

I was using the Floppy Disk Maker software that came with my PowerBook computer to make a set of backup System software disks. I had to stop the procedure in the middle of the process. Now I want to make another set, but the only option I get is Resume when I launch the Floppy Disk Maker. How can I create a new backup set?

DISCUSSION -----

If the Floppy Disk Maker software that ships with the PowerBook 190, 2300c, and 5300 series computers is interrupted during the disk duplicating process, "resume" is the only option available until you complete the original backup.

You can reset Floppy Disk Maker by dragging the Floppy Disk Maker Preferences file from the Preferences folder of your System Folder to the Trash. The next time you launch Floppy Disk Maker, the choices for Minimum or Full Set backup will be available.
