System 7.5: Macintosh TV Control Panel Problem (2/95)

Article Created: 19 September 1994

Article Reviewed/Updated: 16 February 1995

TOPIC -----

I recently installed System 7.5 onto a Macintosh TV. When I switched to the TV Mode, all I got was some colored outlines of the television picture. Thinking that I had installed the software incorrectly, I performed a clean system install and also cleared the PRAM. This didn't help. The computer seems to function OK. The problem is just with the TV/video modes.

DISCUSSION -----

Version 1.0.2 the TV Setup control panel is now available from a variety of online sources. This version fixes the compatibility issues with the Macintosh TV and System 7.5.
