System 6.0.X: Not Compatible with Macintosh 512Ke

This article last reviewed: 5 September 1989

TOPIC --

Has Apple determined if a Macintosh 512Ke can be used with System Software 6.0.3? I have a Macintosh 512Ke with a third-party 2MB memory upgrade. I cannot start the system with either System 6.0.2 or System 6.0.3.

DISCUSSION ---

Officially, System 6.0 and later were not designed, tested, or recommended for Macintosh systems prior to the Macintosh Plus. The total memory installed in the system is irrelevant. The fact that the Macintosh Plus and later Macintosh computers have 256 bytes of PRAM is a major part of the compatibility problem.
This is Apple's official position.
