Article Created: 2 August 1990

Article Reviewed/Updated: 21 November 1994

TOPIC -----

I understand Apple has a software licensing group. How do I get in contact with them and what is their function?

DISCUSSION -----

Contact Apple's Software Licensing department for a complete list of Apple software available for licensing. This list provides information on the different types of agreements available and the corresponding license fees.

Before producing any written materials that accompany a product being licensed (such as manuals and disk labels), be sure to contact Software Licensing.

All requests to license Apple source code require a written proposal.

You can contact the software licensing group by AppleLink at SW.LICENSE; by telephone at (512) 919-2645; and by fax at (512) 919-2120.
