TOPIC -----

I recently exchanged an Apple Extended Keyboard (part #661-0384) and found that it doesn't fit in a shipping box that fits a newer keyboard. Can I use any box?

DISCUSSION -----

There are no shipping requirements for keyboards. Basically, it's okay to put a product into any box that fits as long as it's sufficiently protected from ESD and shipping damage. Hard drives are particularly susceptible to damage in shipping and should be returned in appropriate packaging whenever possible.
