TOPIC ---

What is the correct process for getting evaluation copies of DAL to customers?

DISCUSSION --

Current evaluation programs available from Apple differ, according to whether they're for the IBM environment.

For IBM Servers

There's an Interim License Agreement. If the customer will sign this agreement and the Rep will purchase the server on his own department, then an evaluation copy is available from ESD Marketing. When the customer decides to purchase, the customer then signs the Terms and Conditions, and issues a purchase order.

For VAX and A/UX Servers or Database Adapters

There's an Evaluation License Agreement, which is very much like the generic shrink-wrap agreement. To participate in this evaluation program, contact ESD Marketing.

There's no support given with this evaluation. Customers can purchase short-term support from APDA for the Technical Answerline.
