DAL Tester: Log Written In the Wrong Place

TOPIC -----

The "DAL Tester" program writes its log file in the wrong place. When I choose "Start Logging" from the Options menu, it gives you a standard open file dialog in which you can select the drive, folder, and file name for creating the log file. The drive and folder selections are ignored and the file is always written to the current folder.

DISCUSSION -----

We have duplicated this problem and have escalated it to engineering. The bug has been entered into engineering bug database as bug 1039865. Since this is low priority and not fatal, its fix will be included in the next release.
