TOPIC -----

I'm having trouble scanning according to the directions on page 120 and 121 in the Apple Scanner Owner's Guide. While the directions are clear on how to define two separate areas, it seems I can only select one composition for the whole page.

For example, following the instructions, I select the first area and choose the halftone composition. Then, using the Scan Area tool, I choose the second area and select the line art composition. If I click back on the first area, the composition is at line art, not halftone. If I click it back to halftone and go to the second area, the second area switches to halftone.

Does this feature really work using the AppleScan software? What am I doing wrong?

DISCUSSION -----

We set up the Apple Scanner and followed the directions on page 121. We got two images--one half-tone and one line art--on the screen at the same time. Be sure to select the arrow tool so that things get reset before selecting the scan area tool the second time. Then select the scan area tool and line art before scanning the document.
