StyleWriter II Driver: Print Head Cleaning Feature (2/95)

Article Created: 8 February 1995

TOPIC -----

Is the StyleWriter II driver feature that allows the user to specify a print head cleaning prior to a print job, available when printing to the original StyleWriter?

DISCUSSION -----

The print head cleaning feature of the StyleWriter II driver is NOT available when printing to the original StyleWriter printer. The first print job sent to the printer will list it as an option. During the first print job, the driver determines which type of StyleWriter is being used. If the driver detects an original StyleWriter then all subsequent print jobs will show the options button grayed out. If a StyleWriter II printer is later connected, the options button will remain grayed out until one print job has been sent to the printer, thereby giving the driver the opportunity to determine what type of printer is connected.
