StyleWriter: Using Manual Feed With StyleWriter II Driver (2/95)

Article Created: 2 February 1995

TOPIC ---

I am using a StyleWriter with the StyleWriter II printer driver. When I try to print an envelope, the manual feed option is dimmed. How do I use the manual feed option?

DISCUSSION --

The StyleWriter II printer driver is backward compatible to support the original StyleWriter. Starting with System 7.1.2, the StyleWriter II printer driver is the only driver installed in the Macintosh OS. In order for the printer driver to activate the manual feed option, you must first print to the StyleWriter using the sheet feeder option. After this procedure, the printer driver recognizes that an original StyleWriter is attached to your Macintosh, and the next time you print the manual feed option is available.
