Macintosh: No Printer Available Message (3/93)

Article Created: 24 March 1993

TOPIC -----

I connected my Macintosh to my printer, turned everything on, and tried to print. But I got a message saying that there isn't a printer available.

DISCUSSION -----

In order to use any printer connected to your Macintosh, you need to select it in the Chooser. You can find the Chooser in the Apple menu. Once you have clicked on the printer icon in the Chooser, make sure you have selected the port corresponding to the port on the Macintosh where you have connected the printer cable.

If the icon for your printer does not appear in the Chooser, you may need to reinstall the system software.
